PRINCIPAL'S REMARKS

With the multitude of demands and expectations made on schools today it is necessary, from time to time, to take stock of the situation and re-affirm our educational priorities.

I believe that in essence we can distil out academic achievement and personal development as twin aims worthy of top priority.

Over the years we have been proud of the academic achievements of our pupils. This year has been no exception with our excellent Year 12 examination results and the successes of our students in finding employment indicating that one of our prime aims is being achieved.

This year we had a particularly fine year in the achievements of our students in the sporting and cultural fields. Our Senior Football Team won the "Pizza Cup," our Netball and Basketball Teams distinguished themselves, while most of our other sports teams had their fair share of success. Although we can take pride in our winning teams it is timely to remind ourselves that winning is secondary to participation. Learning skills and the ethics of fair play and good conduct are our first objectives in sport, and I am pleased to report that I was proud of the behaviour of our students on the sports field.

In the cultural area of the school's co-curricula activities we continued to take giant steps forward. For the third consecutive year our School Production, "Sheer Luck Holmes" was a great success. What a wonderful opportunity the School Production provides for young people to develop their creative talents and share a common purpose with other students from all classes in the school. As one student remarked, "Being in the School Production was like being part of a big family."

Hearty congratulations to students on their splendid success. They provide us with a solid foundation to build on in 1987 and make Underdale High a richer and even more rewarding place to be in 1987.

THE UHS STUDENT POLL RESULTS

In Term 3, UHS students "went to the polls", giving their opinions on a variety of topics.

The results are scattered throughout the Yearbook in "boxes" such as this one.

Thank you for voting. I hope that in ten years time, when you look back on the results, you have a good giggle!!!

JOHN KARPATHAKIS

MARCEL MARCEAU

Miss Trebilcock received a letter asking her to select one student to meet Marcel Marceau. Miss Trebilcock couldn't disguise herself as a student so she chose me!

Five teachers offered to supervise me on my excursion, but the Festival Theatre said "No."

When one meets Marcel Marceau face to face one realizes that he is not the young man one is led to believe whilst watching him in action. The absolute brilliance of his work portrays a very agile young man in humorous, sad and in fact all facets of life.

He is, in fact a gentleman (very French!) in his sixties who has an amazing ability to make you see props which are not there and people who are not there. The world should be thankful for the school of mime in Paris which he opened. If the students of his school are able to portray his delightful view of the world half as well as he does, the world of entertainment will continue to be excellent.

School Activities

THE UNDERDALE HIGH SCHOOL ASTRONOMY CLUB

This school is a member of the Astronomical Society of SA. The Astronomy Club has been running for three successful years, thanks to the help and dedication of three teachers, Mr Nicolson, Ms Acton and Mr Woolfall.

The members of the club have been very active this year gringing, polishing, figwins and optically testing lenses and mirrors for the two six-inch, and three eight-inch Newtanian Reflecting Telescopes the club has been working on. Unfortunately, these telescopes were not completed in time to observe the spectacular Halley's Comet (which was first observed in 240BC.) The comet was not in the early morning between early December and early January were richly rewarded. With aid of binoculars, the brillance of this natural phenomenon was fully appreciated.

During the cource of the year the members took part in a few interesting excursions to various observations and planetoriums around Adelaide. Occasionally the club watched films and videos in connection with Astronomy and Astronomical phenomena.

The club has been meeting Tuesday nights after school, and has recently moved into the store-room, where there has been more room, than in the plant room, to store our club's grinding and testing machinery, and the partly constructed telescopes. The club has been successful due to the efforts of the ten hardworking enthusiastic young astronomers, and three helpful teachers.

As this is my last year at Underdale High School, I hope that the club will continue to bring enjoyment to many more students who are interested in Physical Sciences.

1986 Ski Trip

The 1986 ski trip proved to be a very enjoyable one for teachers and students alike. It might be interesting to note though out of all ski accidents, the teachers came out worse off.

On the snow, the students and Mr Tidd found the lift lines quite quick whereas other teachers took time to learn the tricks of the trade of getting through the queue quite as rapidly.

Once on the top of the mountain, it was decision time again on which way one wanted to go down - fact or slow. Most of us chose the fast way with obstacles like trees that jump out from nowhere and other skiers that appeared to be going the other way.

On the way up the triple chair lift, if some of us had the misfortune of running into Mr Woolfall and the snowball brigade, we were instantly bombarded with clumps of snow and ice presented to us in a medium sized spherical shape. Although their shots were not always on target it was good fun to see them trying so hard.

The night time activities seemed to be as exciting as the day's skiing, with Mr Archer showing us the proper way to dance at the disco and Mr Laslett showing us how not to wear a pair of jeans at the "Bad Taste" dress up night.

Overall the ski trip was well worthwhile in the sense that we got to know the teachers and other students better than previously as well as having the great opportunity to have a week in the snow.

SENIOR SOCIAL

1986 SCHOOL SOCIAL

On the eve of the school social the main question among the senior students was "What are you wearing tonight?"

The occasion had to be the school social. The theme of the night was "Bad Taste" and people turned up wearing a WIDE variety of outfits. Clothing ranged from normal everyday gear, to bits and pieces out of the rag box.

As the night progressed, everyone had a great time enjoying themselves thoroughly and mixing with other students. Even the teachers took part in the fun!

The Beach

I love our golden beaches,
Those rolling tumbling waves,
The long and sandy features,
On a hot and humid day.

I'm sunbaking on my blanket,
To get an even tan,
When I see this bronzed life-saver,
A true Australian man.

He runs down to the water,
And swims out to the sea,
To save a drowning person,
I wish he would save me.

Noises near the Miranda on the river

I heard one day when I walked to the river
A few ducks quacking and quivering,
A flock of birds flapping wings and whistling,
The waves of the water rippling,
The trees in the fences rustling,
And bees and mosquitoes flying around buzzing,
Many cars moving, revving
And that's all "I" heard during our excursion.

WARDANG ISLAND YEAR 12 GEOLOGY CAMP

Anyone who has ever been on a school camp knows how much excitement each and every person feels. The air is bubbling with anticipation - no parents and no school for a few days. It almost seems heavenly!

Wardang Island, 9 km off Pt. Victoria, was our destination, and where the 1986 matriculation Geology class, accompanied by Mr. Morley, Mr. Hopkins, Mr Lawrence and Toni Elverd spent four days that we will never forget.

Apart from the geology that was discovered, we made the most of the island's facilities. Amongst other things, we went fishing pigeoning (do you believe that!) and rabbiting. The pigeoning escapade nearly saw Mr. Morley through the floor - the rafters couldn't support the weight of the modern teenager! And the rabbit-chasing left two individuals' mothers a tiresome sewing job!

We ate like Kings and Queens - fresh whiting, roast pigeons, rabbit stew, fruit crumbles and eggs and bacon for breakfast. (there had to be some consolation for being dragged out of bed at the crack of dawn!) - Never before have I actually been "force-fed"!! We almost loved it so much that we nearly spent our Anzac week-end there due to cyclones and torrential rains, which started mild panic as the food was now actually being rationed. So we saw history created; something happened that we were confidently told never did, on Wardang Island - IT RAINED (no it didn't - it POURED).

-It never rains on Wardang Mr. Hopkins!!!!!

P.S. On behalf of all the students we would like to take this opportunity to thank Mr. Hopkins for all his time and effort in making the camp a success!

SMALL BUSINESS MANAGEMENT

This year is a first for Underdale High School, as it is the first time that the Small Business Management Course has been offered as a SAS subject.

At the beginning of the year it was not clear to me that this subject was as practical (as in selling) as I have now found out. I thought we ran an imaginary business.

Three groups were started up at the beginning of the year they were:

KITCHEN KIDS
EURASIAN DELIGHTS
and POWERFUL PRINTERS

At the present time only two of these groups have survived the gruelling pressure that is put upon us.

Each group had to obtain a loan from the School Council. We had to put forward our application and answer any questions they had relating to the business and how we would pay back the loan plus the ten percent interest rate that the school charged, for the use of their money. All groups were successful in obtaining their loans.

All groups found that they could pay back the loan and the interest charged before the set time of 4 months elapsed. So now all groups run on profit.

There is not only the practical side of the course but there is also the theory side which needs to be carefully learnt.

You will have noticed the groups around the school - we sold donuts and pop dogs on Sports Day, catered for the Committee Staff Dinner, several BBQ and Pop Dog Days and we also sold refreshments at the school production.

All groups have been active on the practical side and they now all have a taste of what it is like to run a business. It's not as easy as you think.

During the year several people helped us tremendously, and we would like to thank them very much.

To Mr Newbury, who did all our banking, and also for his excellent advice, which we could not have done without.

To Mrs Noakes, for the use of her facilities in the canteen, which we could not have done without, and also the ladies that were in there on the weeks that we were there, for their support and help when things got tough.

Also a big thank you to Mrs Sih, for the running around, and also to any of the parents who obtained things for us, we thank you.

Getting back to the subject, all the groups had a leader and other special people who did certain jobs, for example, advertising, the book-keeping, and the organising, and the many other jobs that were involved in keeping the business running smoothly.

I feel I have gained knowledge about running a business from this subject and I suggest that you give it a go. This course has been very rewarding.

With the profits we made we spent $200.00 on going out to dinner at St Paul's Restaurant, and with the rest of the money, we bought two Electronic Typewriters that future students will be able to use.

On the whole, I enjoyed the course and suggest that you try it because it will give you some experience in the world of Small Business.

VISIT TO BLACK HILL CONSERVATION PARK

On Tuesday the 24th of October the year 11 Geography class took part in an excursion to Black Hill Conservation Park. We left school at approximately nine o'clock and after two quick stops, made our way to the Park.

Our first stop in the Park was the Nursery where we walked around, trying to identify different plants, and seeing some which we had never heard of. We looked into the glass houses where rows upon rows of tiny plants were sitting waiting to be purchased.

Next we went to the administration buildings where we walked around collecting snippets of information from the pictures and pamphlets which were scattered around the room. After about 15 minutes we were all called into the film room where we learnt many things about the park and where to look for them.

After contemplating the shorter walk, we decided to have lunch early and attempt the longer "Summit Trail". We made our way to the barbeque area where some decided to head for the shop. Later, after our great barbeque lunch we drove to the trails entrance. We all stood staring at the track, contemplating which way to go up. Mel and I decided the shortest way was the right way (for us anyway) and about one third of the class also joined us.

The next three quarters of an hour was exhausting. We seemed to go up and up, like we were climbing into the sky. When we reached what we thought was the summit, we discovered that there was yet another hill to climb. Here we had a rest and while we rested, we marvelled at the views we had. Along the trail, several placards had been set to show us different aspects of plant life.

Then, after another long climb, we came to the summit, where we waited for the other two thirds of the class. When we all arrived at the summit, we rested and then started down again. This was a lot better!! We all decided to go down the way I had come up except we made it down in only 25 minutes.

After finding Frank had hogged all the water, (he and some others didn't climb the summit but instead went down to a lake which was a different track,) we waited at the bus for Mr Baker to arrive as he started after all of us.

On the way home we stopped at a supermarket to buy refreshments before we headed off back to school. The day was most enjoyable and I would say we would all benefit from a Geography camp next year.

SHEER LUCK HOLMES

In the darkness of the wings
Where the chorus sometimes sings

You can find the musos' band
Squashed like sardines in a can

We all scurry into place
As rehearsals start at top pace

Russell and Russell prepare to strum
And Greg is ready with his drums

Mr Wilkey, Nick and Leeann too
Prepare the best that they can do

Now the band is warming up
Overture goes without a stop

Slowly we move through the acts
Of corruption and knives in backs

The last rehearsal comes to an end
To most people it's a godsend

Opening night, we sigh in the pits
As the show goes on, without a hitch.

THE RAINFOREST

The landscape was like one I had never seen before. No picture in a book could surpass the beauty of this discovery. Large trees reach up endlessly into the blue of the sky. Specks of light break through the tiny gaps of the roof of the forest and clot the rare plants and ferns. A mist of fine water surrounds everything and a fresh smell fills your lungs. Rich green leaves, the colour of emeralds, reach out in all directions like fingers searching for something and the limbs of rare shrubs entwine you. You can hear the sounds of exotic birds calling and the flapping of wings against leaves as birds make their way through the dense growth. Not one leaf is left untouched by the fine mist as every kind of plant life shimmers in the light so it looks like somebody has come along and sprinkled everything with gold dust.

I love Winter -

I love winter, the freezing cold wet days
The rain pouring down by the bucketful
The trees look so bare, silent and peaceful
The fog drifts slowly all around the bays

Umbrellas are opened and boots are worn
Lightning bolts strike like a streak of bright light
Thunder rumbling and wind howling at night
Dew gathers up on the grass in the morn

To keep warm, people often have hot drinks
People playing indoor sports, having fun
Is much better than burning in the sun
The weather is chilly like cold ice rinks

Winter is a snail on the wet ground
I'm always waiting for it to come round

WAR

People take cover from the enemy,
Dead people on the ground, guns firing madly,
People are getting hurt very badly,
In the far distance ships are fighting at sea,
People killing with the blow of a gun,
Then see them drop as if hit by lightning,
Eternal noise of guns, people screaming,
Far in the distance people try to run.
Big explosions sound all over the place,
Leaving wounds too serious to mend,
Then the guns stop; it's coming to an end,
Which causes the soldiers to slow their pace.
People are lying all over the ground,
But at last the whole world is safe and sound.

SAS GEOGRAPHY, HISTORY, ENGLISH CAMP IN THE FLINDERS RANGES

It was 8.15 am on our second day back at school in the 3rd term. We were ready to leave for our Year 12 Geography, English History Camp, but we were minus one person. Jason thought he'd be smart and make a big entrance at 8.30, but boy was he embarrassed. Everyone was comfortably piled in the mini bus and we were on our way.

Mr Baker was a great chauffeur, speeding through the narrow, winding roads in the (Hills?). The weather wasn't the best but we made it to our destination, Rawnsley Park in the Flinders Ranges.

After erecting our tents and eating tea we sat around the bonfire for our first corroboree.

On the second day we went sight seeing. We visited Arkaroo Rock and Mr Colgate, our tribal leader, taught us how to eat tadpoles and grass. Then it was off to Wilpena Pound. After our long tiresome hike to the ruins and St Marys Peak we headed off for Sacred Canyon. Tim thought he'd be like a lizard and climb up the almost vertical cliff, and of course, Shaun, Jason and I followed. We had a bit of trouble on the way down, but we made it back to the bus in one piece. We arrived back at the camp for tea and our second corroboree. At this stage, Jeanette was whinging about her neck while Lynley and the teachers were having a good old yarn around the bonfire.

On Thursday we were off to Dingly Dell, Aroona Valley and Brachina Gorge. We visited some more ruins as well as Aboriginal paintings. Webster (alias Mark) was asleep most of the way home (and Web don't worry but you're still only 19). After arriving home, eating and making our bonfire, Mr Baker drove "The Boys" further down the track to rough it; the rest of us (even the teachers) made the most of our last night.

We had decided to sleep under the stars. At one stage, we were all quite frightened as Mersida jumped and said, "Did you hear that?" Shaun wasn't worried and just said, "Oh you're so big!" From this point on we were too scared to go to sleep.

At 5.00, we were in the showers and eating our Co-Co pops and ready for our drive home by our brilliant chauffeur Mr Baker.

On the way home there wasn't a sound in the bus, except for Timmy, whom I can say won the competition hands down.

All in all, our trip to the Flinders Ranges was enjoyed immensely by the whole group. We all became very good friends as the truth really came out on this trip. Didn't it Kids?

BUT DREAMS DON'T COME TRUE

In her dream Shanna had been on the ice.
The crowd had applauded her and roses had fallen to her feet.
She had waited so long for this moment.
To be a recognized iceskater was all she had wanted since she was two.
Training for hours each day and taking the tumbles and falls with determination was well worth the trouble.
In her dream before her performance she had been nervous and she was sure she would fumble.
As she glided out through the icy air and into the spotlight, her heart fluttered.
Soon the music rang through the arena and without a fault her feet, encased in those once awkward skates, moved swiftly in and out of her routine.
She had neither stumbled nor hesitated.
Her performance was flawless and she was rewarded with a perfect 10.
Slowly Shanna pulled herself back to the real world.
If only her dream could come true, but she knew this was impossible.
Her body longed to be on the ice again.
Her feet itched to slide thamselves into the gleaming white iceskates which now lay hidden far away in her cupboard.
But no, she would no longer feel the blades gliding beneath her.
All she feels now is the occasional bump as her
Wheelchair rolls along the pavement.
The accident had left her legs paralysed.
She would never skate again.
A tear rolled down her cheek and she manoeuvred
her chair into the next room.
This room used to be her favourite, but now it only brings back painful memories and false hopes.
Shanna ran her thin fingers over her most prized possessions, her trophies.
Then she drifted away again.
She could hear the music and she could feel the warmth of the spotlight as it followed her around the rink.
Her double axle was perfect.
She used to perform double axles with ease.
If it wasn't for the accident ..... if it wasn't for the accident Shanna would be practising triple axles.
She was so close.
That damn car.
It was going so fast.
Why didn't he look where he was going?
If only .....
No, you can't go back.
Nothing's going to change.

Their legends were different from those of other ancient times
They have respect for their forefathers and ancient burial sites

They held corroborrees to aid them whilst hunting
The warriors they had were skilful and quick
They wore the skins of the animals they killed
And their weapons were of a highly developed type

But now all that has changed
Now come the white men who take everything
They desecrate burial grounds, sacred sites and territories
The white men still take more and give back nothing

So now is the time to stand up for our rights
And to keep our sacred sites
We will stay steadfast like a rock.
So we won't stop till we get our share
Come on white man, be fair

UNDERDALE HIGH GREEK DANCE 1986

On Saturday, August 9th, upon awakening I realised today was not going to be my regular Saturday routine (sleeping in). You see I had to be at the Serbian Hall by 9.30 am to help with the preparations for our school dance. I pulled myself out of bed and managed to get to the bus stop where I waited for the bus, and waited and waited .... After an hour it arrived and to my horror the driver didn't let me on anyway because I'd forgotten my concession card. Back home I went just as my parents were pulling out of the driveway. They told me they were going to the Hall and would I like a lift? By this time I was fuming but I got in the car anyway.

Soon we arrived at the Hall (an hour late) and nobody was there. Half an hour later everybody came at once. Preparations were well under way when we ran out of paper tablecloths. Miss Alevizos and I went to buy some. A couple of parents informed us that a shop on Torrens Road (which didn't exist) sold them so off we went. After searching for it (an hour and a half) we gave up. One thing is for sure, never ask or take directions from Greek parents who think they know best! After that we went to buy black and white film (anything but Kodak said Mr Moat), so we tried a few pharmacies (29 to be exact). We ended up buying KODAK. Then Miss Alevizos wanted to buy some vodka, not for us to drink but for the auction. The old man serving ended up asking her how old she was and giving me the bottle!

On our way to the Hall we realised we needed batteries for the flash, so Miss Alevizos slowly pulled into Welland Plaza (we did a 350^{o} turn). We nearly ran over Mr Rivers who was with some boys from our school. They told us they were going to TOYWORLD (I wonder why?).

Upon returning to the Hall, all the tables had tablecloths because someone brought a roll from home. On the stage there were streamers and balloons and who do you think was asked to put them up all over the Hall? Me! It was a breeze taking only an hour and a half, falling off a chair 10 times and getting about 20 bruises. Soon men started cooking and everyone else went home to get ready for the dance. With only 2 hours to get dressed I thought I'd never make it. I was amazed when I did (it was a personal best record). At six we were at the Hall (first ones there, as usual).

Soon everyone started arriving including some teachers like Mr Lawrence, Mr Reimann, Mr Morley, Mr Donaldson, Mrs Matthews and Mr Papageorgiou. Other invited guests were Mr and Mrs Katavenos, the Education Officer from the Greek Consulate. There was great food for sale like souvlakia and a live band played Greek music. Some of our students performed 2 Greek dances for us which were very enjoyable. People were having a ball dancing (even a few teachers). It was a wonderful evening and everyone who came seemed to be enjoying themselves. It was a great success and I would like to thank everyone who supported it, especially the Greek Parents' committee for their efforts. I know that along with so many others in our school we enthusiastically await the next Greek dance in 1987.

Underdale 20 Years Ago

I was employed by the Education Department and was sent to Underdale High School, then in its first year of existence.

In 1966 all classes fitted into rooms in the main building with the canteen in classroom 21 and the library above. There was a single staff room located above the offices. The AV room, the Computer room, and the two Audio Video Viewing rooms did not exist; they were class rooms.

Over the years there have been numerous changes. The library was expanded, the canteen was built and the movable class rooms appeared to meet the needs of a rapidly growing school. The areas where children hung their raincoats have been swallowed up by the sports teacher's room, the teacher's correction room in the east wing and the school store room in the west wing.

During these years of change four principals have guided the school and numerous teachers have come and gone. Many have been here a good many years.

At first students wore uniforms every day and there were occasions when the students attended functions in school uniform, hat complete. Prefects wore badges indicating their positions of responsibility.

Canteen facilities were always excellent and students enjoyed a buttered roll for 5 cents, pies and pasties for 9 cents and chocolate donuts for 5 cents.

Lunch breaks were spent on the oval at the back of the school as the Bowen Oval was out of bounds till it was seeded and made ready. Over the Torrens, on the opposite side were the vegetable gardens of the Lewis family. The college was not in existence and the area now known as the college oval was a celery garden.

The Parents and Friends were kind and thoughtful of the school's needs and most generous in their many gifts to the school. No grafitti was in evidence, and the asphalt areas were spotless.

The staff used a printing machine in the main office and there was only one receptionist/secretary in the office. The printery was space as were the offices of the Senior teachers on the top level of the stairs.

I doubt the students of today realise what has been done to make this school sufficient to their various needs.

Audrey Ferdinands.

COMPUTER CLUB

Hello once again!

If you remember last year the computer club had its first beginnings. We started with 22 members and 15 terminals. Well we still have the 15 terminals but our numbers have somewhat diminished. We are now only a fraction of that. Eight to be exact!!.

Our instructors have changed as well. Last year we had Mr Roelofsen,but now we have Mr May. He also (like Mr Roelofsen) helps us with all our problems.

Some of last years' members have left us for some legitimate reason. Nevertheless, we have revitalized our depleted numbers, with the entry of year eight students and various enlighted students from other year groups. We meet every Wednesday from 15:15 until 16:15.

The students are encouraged to write their own programs thus learning to program a BBC Computer. The learning of BBC basic can lead a person to learn locomotive basic, Z80 machine code, 6502 machine code, pascal, cobol (common business orientated language), and other computer languages. The computer club is a great place to meet friends and learn about computers

Now don't think the computer club is for squares and computer freaks, but is for anyone who wants to learn about computers, or who just likes having a lot of fun on the computers.

If you are thinking of buying a computer then this is a great place to learn about them while having a lot of fun in the meantime.

Well I can't think of anything else to write, so see ya next year when I write something similar.

If you join a club next year, be sure to join the computer club, as it's the best club you'll ever join.

LINEAR PARK

Linear Park is a peaceful place,
As ducks come round and quack,
The trees are growing nice and tall,
To shade us everyday.

The lawn is so prickly all day long,
No rubbish is around,
Everybody is listening,
As we hear the water go along.

FALL OF THE MIGHTY

"By the rivers of Babylon,
There we sat down
And we wept.
We hanged our harps
Upon the willows.
They that carried us away captive
Required of us a song"

The men of war from days of old
Now in their graves are cold.
King Cyrus sat in Babylon's Gate,
Enjoying the glory of his fate.
But alas, like his victims - dead,
He too has made a grave his bed.

Great Alexander and Caesar too,
Napolean and Hitler, to name a few,
All thought war would the answer be
To give them power and set men free.
Alas! they should the lesson have learned
That greed and power for which they yearned
Would always end, for friend and foe,
In the grave - where they too must go.

Nothing is gained by men at war;
Only pain and grief and weeping sore.

COMPUTERS

Computers are expanding fast
But what do they stand for?
They've brought in new technology
Yet caused many problems in society.
They do most tedious and repetitive work,
Yet they cause unemployment.
They've broadened peoples' learning capabilities
Yet once programmed, take them away.
They design and create
But for many trades take away the skill and tradition.
They can control satellites to small businesses
Yet help create nuclear arms.
Who has the right to say where they stop?
Will it be a computer error that ends the world?
We coped and didn't have them in the past.
Do we need them in the future?

YEAR NINE DEBATING REPORT

The year nine debating team had a good year. We got off to a slow start, losing our first debate by only one point. We lost the next two also by very small margins. Then in July, we were fortunate enough to host one session of the National Debating Championships. This gave us great inspiration and we won our final two debates. Our first speaker was Rosemarie Poschl followed by Atanas Nikolof (a year 8 student) and Maria Katsikas.

Our special thanks go to Mrs Donovan and Mrs Matthews for coaching us and being there.

YEAR 10 DEBATING

Once again we signed up our names for another year of competition, failures, loss, extra homework, hard work, embarrassment, practice, speech writing and more failure - to sum it up, DEBATING. Although we had the best ever, terrific, sensational, great, whip-driving coach - Mrs Atkinson we did happen to lose a few games, through no fault of hers, or ours for that matter or you could say we lost all of them except for one. We would have to say Mrs Atkinson was the backbone of our team. When we were down she got us up, when we were losing she cheered us on, when we were exhausted she was there with the water and to you we say THANKS. There was once, though, when a miracle did occur, that was when we won our secret topic! (Probably because our opponents were on the bottom of the debating ladder! We won't mention any names.) We did enjoy debating this year - you probably enjoy it more when you are losing; this was the case with us. We did meet a lot of nice people, teams and coaches from other schools which made everything more worthwhile. We all think the experience of debating has helped us gain confidence, understanding, skills, and a better manner in day to day life which shows just how much debating can do for you! We want to say thank you to everybody who has helped us along the way and again we congratulate Mrs Atkinson for being a great coach, and putting up with us for 2 years we know it's been hard!
Can we make it 3 years?

SHEER LUCK HOLMES

The Directors' Nightmare - Final Dress Rehearsal and the paint on the sets is still drying, the cast still don't know all their lines, the Lighting Person is locked out of the lighting box with no key and some strange illness is slowly spreading through the entire cast and crew and they're going down like flies.

Still...the show must go on, and go on it did. We had a lot of fun. It's not often you have a show where almost the whole cast dies - some of more than once! The most trouble we had was working out how to stick knives into peoples' backs without getting any REAL blood on the floor.

Peter McDonald as Sherlock Holmes, was a "tower" of strength, and Tony Waters (and Teddy!) was a riot as Dr Watson. Their bedroom scene is one which will remain forever in the minds of the audience.

The two thugs, Richard Young and Jaimie Tilbrook almost stole the show, but Madame X (Annette Manser) just managed to keep them in line. Suzi Capper was positively sickening as the fair Virginia, Sofie Maragozidis was wonderful "daarling" as slinky Cynthia and Marc Nicole was suitably stiff-upper-lippish as Frank Ernest.

The rest of the cast was also great - but too numerous to mention. Some of them played 3 or 4 different people - and died 3 or 4 violent deaths. Special mention should be made of the Inspector's (Chris Gebhardt) death - he took longer to die each night!!

Because we had fun, the audience had fun - and that's the joy of

EXPEDITION TO CLELAND CONSERVATION PARK

On November 4th, both Ms Wilson's year 8 science and year 11 Biology classes ventured into the wilderness to inspect the wildlife at Cleland Conservation Park.

The day started early, with the bus (five star) leaving Underdale at 9 am to arrive at Cleland not long after. The day was a scorcher, forcing many of us to peel out of jeans, into shorts. Even our illustrious leader (Ms Wilson) had shorts on, sending ripples of laughter through the country-side.

After being exposed to a ranger displaying his constricting carpet python, small groups of us then dispersed to roam the park in search of answers to a booklet so kindly given to us by the staff.

Many highlights of the park (other than Ms Wilsons legs) were the dingo pit, avairies, koala sanctury and kiosk from which we scoffed ourselves. Well, I did anyway.

Soon after our safari, it was decided to follow a kamikaze trail through the Adelaide alps to Waterful Gully, a trek which all students survived, much to the disgust of all teachers. We then boarded the bus that had waited for us and returned to school. Overall, a great day was had by everybody.

POEM

Thongs and vegemite are very Australian and seem to be quite a trend.
Foreigners mock us and say to eat vegemite
we must be round the bend.

They say Aussies need thongs cause
they can't tie shoe laces
But walking in thongs is an art and
I'd love to put them in their places.

Another typical Australian thing is the good, old, ancient long drop Although sad but true long ago the long drop went for the chop.

Kangaroos and kookaburras are ours and ours alone.
Just think all the other countries only have them on loan.

MATRIC ART TRIP TO MELBOURNE

There were mixed emotions at the train station, but the general feeling was one of excitement. The prospect of spending a few days in Melbourne was inviting, it almost made us glad we chose ART.

To say the journey was uncomfortable is an understatement, arms and legs were piled everywhere as we restlessly attempted to sleep.

We pulled into a dark drizzly Melbourne station, where we finally found a taxi to take us to the Miami Motor Inn. That afternoon we spent some time in the Old Melbourne Jail, as the exhibits in the jail were partly the inspiration behind Sidney Nolan's Ned Kelly Series of paintings - the remaining daylight hours were spent in the Australian section of the Melbourne Art Gallery.

During our four day stay we visited the Gallery several times to view specific parts of its vast collections. On both Friday and Saturday we spent time in the outer suburbs of Melbourne, either visiting Colonial homes such as Como on Toorak Road or visiting smaller private art galleries.

Sunday morning several hours were spent at the Meat Market; this rather large building has been set up as Craftperson's Workshops where you can observe practising craftspeople and view exhibitions of their work.

The group then ventured down the road to the Victoria Market; it was quite an experience - it sapped us all of our last remaining energy. Sunday afternoon was a time for quiet discussion and review of the past four days, time for catching up on assignments and preparing ourselves for the return journey. The class would like to thank Mrs Keast and Mrs Scardigno for taking us and giving us such a wonderful opportunity to see the art work in Melbourne.

THE RIVER TORRENS

Neglected Old River
Making its way to the sea
Twisting and turning and Frolicking with glee

Pollution, Erosion
Muddy waters and ground
Far different and ruined
From when it was found

The fish are all,
Dying and dead
Some stupid people
Didn't use their head

They throw their rubbish
In the river
Don't turn a hair
"No need to quiver"

Keep cool my man
No need for worry
It'll go down stream
In a hurry

But the trouble is
This is not true
It all gathers
And collects the dew

So let's all get together
And clean up this space
And make the river
A better place

UNDER 15 FOOTBALL

The U/15 football team had fluctuating degrees of success this year. The programme was interrupted by poor weather and each team had a bye; this did not allow for many matches to be played.

Underdale played in some tough, hard fought close matches where they both won and lost by less than a goal. Throughout the games there were some great team and individual efforts in an unsettled side. Many of the boys possessed a high skill level which with development will see them progress into higher ranks of football.

The team had a very successful year, winning all home and away matches and finishing as Zone Premiers. Throughout the season, all players tried different positions and shared court time. To be so successful was a tribute to the team's skill and determination.

In the third term we played in a one day carnival against other top teams and found the competition very tough, finishing in fourth position. All players are to be congratulated on their effort and on the way in which they played the games.

GIRLS SENIOR KNOCKOUT BASKETBALL

In the second term, the Senior Knockout Basketball team had a great season. We defeated every team in the competition and then went on to play in the Weekend Round-Robin finals to play the winners of the other zones. Unfortunately, we did not have our whole team due to club commitments and were not as successful as we had hoped. Still every player put in 100% each game and gave it their best shot. Thank you to Mr MacPherson and Mr Tidd for the time put into coaching and organising us. Also thank you to the supporters who came out to cheer us all on. S E N I O R F O O T B A L L

The 1986 Underdale senior football team once again competed in the Pizza Hut Cup Knockout football competition. This year was to be different; we were not knocked out in the first round. In fact we were not beaten at all.

The first game of competition saw us play Dover Gardens. After a slow start to the game we finally slipped into top gear kicking eight goals to nothing in the final term. We ran out winners by thirty-six points. Best players included Bryant, Harris, Heffernan and Akritidis.

The second game was not so close, Underdale ran out victors, defeating Glengowrie by seventy-eight points. Best players included Milsom, King, Buckton and Geyer. Our next victim was to be Waikerie. After a neck and neck struggle all day Underdale came out ahead at the final siren, running out with the game by twenty-five points. Underdale's best players were Parkinson, Stavropoulos, King and Milsom.

After being down by twenty-nine points at half time, against Risdon Park, Underdale scraped through by only six points. After a great team effort in the second half, Milsom, Parkinson, King and Akritidis came through with flying colours.

In the Grand Final the Senior Football team created school history by blitzing Ingle Farm 16.13 (109) to 2.5 (17). The outstanding players were Akritidis, Milsom, Heffernan, Dinning, Geyer, King, Weber, Harris and Langdon.

A special thanks must go to Mr Archer who coached us sensationally throughout the season, and Mr Hilterbrand who was responsible for the overall organization of the team.

A thanks must also go to all the parents, teachers and students who supported us on the night of the Grand Final. Congratulations must go to David Milsom for winning the Best and Fairest, and Adam King for winning the runners up award. In closing a special thanks to the rather encouraging cheer squad situated beneath the Thebarton Oval scoreboard.

The first term's cricket produced mixed results. This was due to rainy days and the need for catch up matches. Our bowlers, however, had some very fine results. In the first match Donovan Shaw took 2/8 and Terry Gibson 2/4, against Le Fevre, which we won by forfeit. Matthew Porter took 2/9 in the scratch match we played. Against our "A" team, Ronsley Gardner took an impressive 3/5. We are looking forward to a better performance, especially with the bat in the Spring.

OPEN GIRLS HOCKEY

This year we had a very successful hockey season. We actually defeated all but one of the teams which crossed our path, however this proved to not stop us from succeeding in becoming premiers.

The team consisted of a wide range of players from year 8 through to year 12, experienced players to beginners. But these differences did not handicap the team in any way but in actual fact it would have made winning the matches more of a challenge for the players.

Personally and on behalf of the team I wish to thank Kerren Adams, our captain, who is a most valuable player and Mark Grivell for helping Toni in coaching us. Also thanks must go to Mr. Moat, Mr. Laslett and Mark Grivell for their umpiring efforts.

Lastly we all would like to sincerely thank Toni Elverd for the effort she put in and for her enthusiastic coaching throughout the season!

MRS. MARGARET K. WARD OBITUARY

From February, 1977 until January 1980 the Underdale High community was indeed fortunate to have Mrs. Margaret K. Ward as Principal. During this period Margaret's concern for the students' intellectual development and the aesthetics of their physical environment was most evident -

The acquisition of works of art, The expansion of the library, The purchase of a grand piano, The establishment of grouves of native trees, The erection of pergolas, The introduction of vertical clustering in Home Groups, The cecognition of the worth of examinations to complement a rigorous academic teaching programme.

Margaret Ward began her teaching career with an appointment to the Mid-North during World War II, followed by a lengthy period at Adelaide High,a teacher and Senior in the English Faculty. Subsequent to her appointment as the first Principal of Mitcham Girls', Margaret served as Principal at both Nailsworth and Underdale.

In 1980, in recognition of her considerable services to education Margaret was made a Member of the Order of Australia.

Through her efforts the Underdale School Community has many tangible things by which we can remember Margaret. Underdale High School is a better place for all of us because she was once the Principal.
