FROM THE PRINCIPAL

This year was the 25th Anniversary of Underdale High School. The school began in 1964 with the establishment of foundation classes in Year 8 at Kidman Park High School, while our buildings were being completed. Later in the year, the classes moved to the present site.

It was interesting to note that when we asked for volunteers to be on the organizing committee for our anniversary celebrations, several old scholars from the foundation classes came forward.

During the meetings that followed and the celebration events of the dinner-dance and the family BBQ, I got to know several of the original scholars of the school and many other former students who had attended Underdale High School over the last 25 years.

It was with great pride I learnt of the affection that many old scholars have for their school. Many former students spoke with admiration of their teachers and the high standard of education they received. Mrs Ferninands, who had recently retired after 25 years at UHS was besieged with former pupils wanting to reminisce about old times. Many other staff had the same experience.

Old scholars were proud of their school and gave it credit for laying the foundation for their successes in life. I was impressed by the many achievements of our old scholars, with many of them being very successful professional and business people of considerable standing in the community. I also noted with pride that many of our old scholars were stable, family-oriented and community minded people who are the linchpins of our society.

My association with the old scholars at our Anniversary celebrations made me pleased to be a member of the Underdale High School Community. I trust that each year we can be equally proud of our students who graduate, and that they too, will speak in glowing terms of the quality of the education they received.

25TH ANNIVERSARY - UNDERDALE HIGH

This year Underdale High School celebrated its 25th Anniversary. The school opened in 1966 and was housed for a short time in the Kidman Park High School buildings while the buildings at Underdale were being completed. To celebrate this event three activities were planned, namely;

1) An open day on Friday 27th October
2) A dinner/dance on Saturday 28th October
3) A family day at the school on Sunday 29th October.

Both the dinner dance on the Saturday night and the BBQ on the Sunday were judged by the participants to be a great success. 256 people attended the dance and approximately 250 were at the BBQ. At the dinner dance we hardly needed the music as it seemed to interfere with the talking. It was wonderful to see former scholars excitedly renewing acquaintance with old friends and former teachers. Many teachers hardly had time to eat their meals, as they were constantly approached by old scholars and became involved in reminiscing old times.

Mrs Ferdinands, one of the founder teachers at the school, attracted the most attention from old scholars, while other staff who had been at school for many years were eagerly sort out.

The Old Scholars presented a painting by Genarino Colella, an old scholar of UHS, at the Sunday function.

While we expected the activities to incur a loss we actually made a profit of $700.

The splendid success of this weekend was due to the Organizing Committee chaired by Mr Donaldson. Members of the committee were: Colleen Bennett, Diane Pastro, Paul Coope, Barbara Matsen, Lorraine Pitman, Tanya Knappstrein, Kathy van Riet, Anna Fasan, Kym Gale, Eve Bologiannis, Carol and Paul Caspar, Jenny Taylor, Gennarino Colella, Lou Fasan, and Susan Rogers.

The following information was contained in a letter we received from Heather Jeisman (nee Smith):

"Many thanks for all your hard work in seeing that the 25th Anniversary celebrations of the UHS were such a success.

To me the 4 years '67-70 spent there were really fantastic years and I have many very happy memories. The highlight I guess came in '70 when I was one of the Prefects - also I was class captain and captain of Torrens House. All these things help to form part of the reason for going down memory lane - I won't forget Saturday night for a long time. The atmosphere was electric! The staff seemed to turn into your best friends - I never realised how close the school community was in those early years. I am extremely grateful for the standard of teaching I received to enable me to enjoy my secretarial years in the Government before my family of 5 were born. It was also wonderful to bring my husband and children on Sunday - I was most proud. I encourage you to keep up the good work that others may leave there prepared suitably to go into the workforce, as happy as I. Thanks once again for a great weekend. God Bless."

INTERACT CLUB REPORT

Rotary Representative: Mr Cluff

Staff Supervisor: Mrs M Donovan

President: Piers Colgate

Vice President and Secretary: Mandy Madgen

Treasurer: Todd Kimber

Members: Linda Aiston, Belinda Carr, Tamika Carusi, Dung Huynh, Luke Chamberlain, Brian Van Hoof, Nick Vogiatsis.

Although only a small group the Interact Club was very active in fund raising activities.

Our first venture for 1989 was to raise $397.50 for the One-and-All Trust Fund. The cheque was presented to our ex One-and-All sailor, Mr Andrew Laslett, at a school assembly. With Mrs Donovan, Piers and Mandy attended the celebrations of the Twenty-fifth Aniversary of the Woodville High School Interact Club.

Our other fond raising ventures were:

|---|---|
| Red Cross: | $328.78 |
| Anti Cancer Foundation: | $590.91 |

Our club continued to sponsor, through the Save The Children Foundation a secondary student in Swaziland. Her name is Virginia Le Mdlule and she attends Year 9 at Mjingo Le High School. This year our school is the sponsor of a fresh water crocodile at the Adelaide Zoo. Recognition of our school as a sponsor will be shown on a plate in front of the crocodile's living quarters.

Next year we hope to attract more members and to increase our activities in the school and the community. We thank all students for their contributions on casual days. We thank Mrs Donovan for her continuing guidance.

A visit to the Jupiter Creek Gold Mines

The weather on the day of our excursion to the Jupiter Creek Gold Mines was perfect. The bus was ready and waiting for us at half past eight. After an hour of expert driving by Mr Lawrence, we arrived at our destination.

Once off the bus, we were on our way into the bush. Our leader, Mr Colegate was unusually excited and gave us some information about the Beatrice Mine which we were about to explore. It was worked from 1869 to 1871. We saw many shafts, but some of these were blocked off. One highlight of the day was creeping along a pitch-black, low drive for about eighty metres. We protected our heads with our hands and hung on to the person in front.

Other highlights of the day were seeing a brown snake's burrow and a hike around Mount Bold. We all agreed that it had been a wonderful excursion.

S.R.C. - 1989

For various reasons over the year the members of the S.R.C. group dropped to a hard working core of nine students, they were Rebecca Collins, President. George Charitonidis, Vice President; Rosemary Poschl, David Richardson, Treasurer, Fleur McIntyre, Sam Turner, Rohan Whiting, Melissa Davey and Jodie Hobbs.

Throughout the duration of the year we met weekly in Art Room One to organise a series of fund raising events such as Senior and Junior Disco's and Casual Days.

The money for the Casual Day in Term Two was donated to the Asthma Foundation by Rebecca on behalf of the students of this school.

George and Rebecca also attended a function at Government House as representatives of our school

David gave up his time to attend a S.C.O.F.'s conference held at the Education Department building, to contribute his ideas and opinions as to what young people who have given up thier time to work with me on the S.R.C. They have contributed to one aspect of school life which would not have existed without their efforts.

It is this unselfishness in their natures that made them such a wonderful group to work with on our various range of activities.

I want to wish them all the best in their future ventures and thank them for their friendship.

RECOLLECTIONS OF TIMES PAST

QUESTIONS

(1) Where is the boys' quadrangle?
(2) What were Rooms 20 and 21 before they were classrooms?
(3) Why is there carpet along some of the upper eastern corridors?
(4) What was grey, with box-pleats, white, red and black?
(5) What were Flinders, Hindmarsh, Sturt and Torrens?

If you know the answers, this article is not for you!

In the beginning there was a rumour. A new school was to be built. We could attend it rather than Henley, Findon or Thebarton. It was to be called Underdale. By late 1964, the rumour had acquired bricks. Forms were sent out; filled in; enrolments accepted. Everything seemed ready. In February 1965, Underdale High would fly open its doors.

There was just one little problem. In January 1965, the building didn't have any doors. It was just a shell, sitting in a sea of weeds; an unfinished, unbeautiful shell at that. Underdale High would open, not in the weedpatch of Garden Terrace, but at Kidman Park Girls' Tech (which was also opening for the first time and had completed buildings, even if its "oval" looked like a bomb site and came with its own derelict house).

So it was. On Day One, a gaggle of about 150 students met the six or seven staff members at the western-end doors of KPGTHS. We were divided into alphabetical groups, given a test and sent home at lunch time. High School looked quite good!

Day Two and our whole school life was set. Classes were redivided. The test had counted. 1A did Latin, French and History; 1B, French and History and so on. There was no choice and no assumption that we might be interested in mapping out our own futures.

As there were so few teachers, we had some for a number of subjects. The Headmaster, Mr Tiller, taught Maths, Latin and Science. Many of us learned to dread his "black-suit days" when tests abounded. Less than full marks in some meant doing them again after school. I was often working late!

Our classes were on one floor of the school. (Fraternization with the Kidman girls was frowned upon (but happened anyway, especially in that derelict house). PE happened once a week - the whole school descending on the Primary School's oval near Kooyonga Golf Course. Tech Studies was done by boys only, at Seaton Boys'. We spent the whole afternoon on, and waiting for, buses. For Art and Science, we invaded the other floors of the school. (Presumably, the girls were safely out of sight).

Classes were competitive. In mine, at least, reports told parents where a student finished in the class; fine for the top few; very disheartening for the rest. Every subject was examined every term, and results were placed on the blackboard. Failure (in Latin, less than 90%) was very public and humiliating. Despite this, we liked most of our teachers and an outcry arose when Mr Tiller was replaced at the end of 1967.

In the first year, a uniform was adopted. Red and black blazers, grey and more grey, ties, hats, berets, badges and black leather shoes. One teacher actually inspected the shoes to ensure that they were properly cleaned. When long hair became fashionable, boys had to have it scrutinised by a committee to see that it was neat. On very hot days, liberal teachers, generally those who didn't make us stand when they entered the room, might allow us to take our ties off. We had to wear them to exams. Girls, of course, only wore their ties in winter.

Headers (otherwise known of as Prefects) were elected. as were house and class captains.

The school acquired a motto - Integrity - and a school hymn to be sung at very frequent asemblies. At first, there was one every day, at which notices were read out. We then went straight off to lessons. Our hymn was short, Kidman's long. At shared assemblies, the contrast was comical.

The first drama nights, choir nights, socials and speech nights, were held. At a social, a young female French teacher was reportedly seen heading upstairs with a young man. Rumours flew, but he turned out to be her fiance. Many of the boys were in love with her; most of the girls with him. It seemed terribly romantic.

We competed in the inter-school athletics. The whole school went to Kensington and was still smaller than some school's athletic teams. A very humiliating war-cry was practised. Other schools had fancy, embroidered flags; we had a cardboard sign. Most people had never heard of us. We did surprisingly well.

Late in 1965, the great moment occurred. The whole shool emptied its lockers, took to its bikes and rode to Underdale. We moved in. The building had doors, but was still surrounded by weeds. There was no canteen, and no portables. Over the years, the parents and friends tamed the wilderness, capped the well built cricket pitches, made ovals and laid tennis courts. The canteen was built and we made a hockey pitch that was almost level. No longer did visiting hockey teams have to scrub mud off; nor could football and softball matches be won by losing balls in the weeds or the celery patch. By 1968, the school looked more normal, and was perhaps a little duller.

School was fun, but always demanding.

After all, how many of today's students have been told to clean their shoe marks off the wall, using their handkerchiefs?

ANSWERS

(1) Between the canteen and the eastern shelter-shed. At first segregation was strict, but it broke down when the canteen was built and long lines of girls had to make their way there.

(2) The Canteen.

(3) It was a Speech-and-Hearing Centre.

(4) A girl prefect, complete with white cowboy hat.

(5) Houses. Just imagine how many of our students now would like to be in Black House and wear black on Sport's Day.

SHEIK, RATTLE 'N' ROLL - MISS T's STORY

Several things about this production drove me crazy.

Item 1 It is "Shake" not "Chic". Hollywood got it wrong way back in the days of Rudolph Valentino, Shake, RATTLE 'N' ROLL, often an old '50s hit, not Chic, RATTLE 'N' ROLL, as people persisted in saying.

Item 2 The Case of the Disappearing Cast. We lost at least 15 cast members, through shifts, employment, illness or osmosis. We went through four guards, three Caliphs, two Featherstons and quite a few partridges in pear trees.

Item 3 Costumes. It is a wonder Mrs Elcombe was ever heard from again, buried under the weight of 120 costumes. She did a super job, deploying nimble - fingered parents, and teachers, and sewing an incredible number of outfits herself. If we ever see another harem costume on Durban we'll scream!!

Item 4 Deafness. Some strange affliction gripped the cast, so that they did not respond unless I YELLED at them.

Item 5 Murphy's Law: if anything can go wrong it will!

(a) The Theatre wasn't ready on time.

(b) EVERYBODY got the flu.

(c) The sets were painted upside down.

(d) The piano was out of tune.

(e) The sword dept breaking.

(f) The microphones cut out.

(g) Mrs Elcombe's car blew up.

(h) AND, Rosie, the theatre's resident ghost, turned my light out during a blackout on the First Night so I couldn't see to play the piano.

BUT .....

It was all right on the night!

A few Memorable phrases:

"How Bizarre!"
"Really? I thought only peasants did that!"
"I can't go on ... I just can't go on ..."
"Boy, do you need a union!"
AND "I'm wand'ring ....."

It will be at least 1,001 ARABIAN NIGHTS before I do it again!

SHEIK, RATTLE'N ROLL:

EXCERPTS FROM AN ACTORS' DIARY

WEDNESDAY NIGHT:

THE BIG NIGHT. Everyone was hyped up and nervous. I felt fine until I heard the piano doing the musical prelude .....

People were hugging each other and taking photos and running around. Not a lot happened before the show started, except I received a basket from my family. It said: "THE WORLD IS A STAGE AND YOU MUST PLAY YOUR PART".

The show got underway before we knew it and I can't tell you much of what happened then because I was off-stage fretting on a couch. When it was time to go on stage Shane, Peter and I shook hands and said: "GOOD LUCK!". Next minute we knew, we were on stage and my legs were shaking like mad. I was shaking and uncomfortable at first, but then I settled down and I was okay .....

THURSDAY NIGHT:

Thursday night was the pits. People stuffed up and lots of other things went wrong .....

Shane forgot to take his sword on stage and I had to dive off stage and get a sword while trying to stay hidden behind a block. I dived back on and tossed the sword to Shane just as he was jumping onto the block to hold his sword in the air. I tell you, IT WAS CLOSE, because that was the part where Shane had to say: "I am a champion swordsman", and then fight the guards and chase them off-stage. IT would have looked pretty silly without a sword .....

FRIDAY NIGHT:

When I walked on stage for the first time on Friday, I was not nervous, but instead I felt really good. The audience was really good as well ..... The cast felt more experienced and the performance was tighter than the two previous nights .....

SATURDAY NIGHT:

..... When I got to the theatre I could just feel the excitement in the air. Everyone was hyped up to the max. We all knew that this was the last night and the last of the worry over lines and movements and the audience. When we were putting on the make-up we were laughing and joking and signing each others' programs and running around. As the piano started this time I didn't feel nervous, I was just going to give it my best shot .....

..... Afterwards there were smiles all around and people were singing and laughing as they took their make-up off. Then we went out and RAGED!

MY SOFT CUDDLY TOY

My first cuddly toy was a small yellow bear with a black nose and yellow/orange eyes. When you pressed down on its chest, it squeaked. It was a birth present from Granddad Richards. I was two or three weeks old when it was given to me. It was my favourite soft toy. I took it everywhere with me. It has been dragged, squashed, chewed, chucked around, lost then found, lost then found, and it's been taken to bed.

We have travelled all around South Australia and it almost always went with us. It always went on all of our holidays. It has been shared amongst my sisters and I as they came along. We dressed it up in dolls' clothes, pushed it around in a doll's carriage, and on some occasions, we have jumped on it and punched it as it got older, to make it squeak. It's about 12 years and 3 months now.

At the moment, it is in a box still from when we moved house approximtely six months ago. We are planning to move house again in six months, so it hasn't been taken out of the packing boxes.

It was, and still is, a well loved toy.

MY FAVOURITE TOY

The best toy that I had when I was small was a medium sized gollywog. It was black with spiky black hair. Its eyes were made of buttons and had a mouth sewn in. It had a green jacket and red pants which appeared to be knitted.

I used to cary it around everywhere and slept with it all the time. My grandma and grandpa bought it for me when I was small, at a fete.

Sometimes it got dirty , so I had to get it washed and then a button would fall off or something, so a new one had to be sewn on and unless it wasn't, I woud cry and complain.

Before I left for Indonesia, my grandma had to sew a button on him and she never returned him . He sits in her cupboard, white with oldness - always showing a smile.

MY FIRST TEDDY BEAR'

When I was about four years old, my Mum made me a teddy bear. I was all excited when Mum gave it to me. It became my favourite toy and I played with it everyday and slept with it at night. Then one day I lost the bear and I was upset. Mum had to wash some clothes that day and not knowing, the bear was mixed up with all my clothes for washing. I watched my mum doing the washing and I saw something brown mixing around with the white sheets. I went outside and told Mum and she came inside, turned the washing machine off and found my bear.

I nearly cried because my bear had shrunk and its ears and feet and hands were half as small as they were originally. After that, I kept my bear with me all the time.

Joanne Rugari 21/A3

SOFT TOY (CRYING TEDDY BEAR)

This teddy was given to me by my nanna. It was a good toy because it was pretty and cried when you tipped it upside down. This teddy went in competitions and won prizes. My teddy has now been passed down to my younger cousins to use. Before I had the teddy, my brother used it until I grew up to want teddies.

My teddy's name was Winnie and was ten years old. Winnie was also very cuddly and always came to bed with me. One day I accidently dropped him into the bath and started cutting his fur off. My teddy was loved also by my kindergarten friends. My teddy, named Winnie, was also a helpful teddy, because when you went mad or upset, he would make you glad and happy. He would also be a great mate when needed.

THE ADVENTURES OF PETEY BEAR

Hi, I'm Petey bear. I'm so named because I was given to Judy by her Uncle Pete. I was given to her when she was two, all wrapped up in beautiful Christmas wrapping paper. I'm approximately 30 cm tall; I have brown fur, brown eyes and a black nose

When Judy was about four, she announced that she was taking me to the Teddy Bears' Picnic. But it seemed like ages before the day came. I couldn't wait. I was really going to be on TV. Finally, the day came. I was really excited as we drove to the studio. After what seemed like ages, we arrived at the Teddy Bears' Picnic at the Chanel 9 studio. Joey Moore from The Channel Niners interviewed Judy about me. I was on TV. She asked Judy what my name was and who gave her to me.

I also used to go on trips to Clare with Judy. Clare is where her grandparents live. So we go up there quite often. Clare is a country town up in the country. It's very nice. I love going up there.

Well, that's all from me, so

Bye

Petey Bear

MY LITTLE WHITE LAMB

When my mother was single, she worked in Myers. She worked in the Children's Department. They were having a sale on little stuffed toy lambs and rabbits; so she bought two rabbits and two lambs. She gave a lamb and a rabbit to my cousins and kept the other two for presents.

Two years later she got married - then had me. She had forgotten about the lamb and rabbit and then remembered that she had toys at the back of her cupboard. So, I practically grew up with them, especially the lamb.

In 1982 we went to Greece - Mum, Dad, my sister and me. I took my little lamb with me. After one year's time, we were packing to come back to Australia. I had books, pencils and papers lying on my bed with my lamb, ready to take with me on the plane. But I forgot all about them, and we left my lamb there with my Grandmother and Grandfather.

About one year later, my uncle was going to Greece, so I asked him to bring my lamb back and he did. So, my little lamb is sitting on my bed now with a doll and the rabbit.

'A' NETBALL

The A netball team had a very successful season this year. We went through our regular season undefeated thus winning the zone championship.

In the State Knockout competition we won all our lead up games and were one of the four teams to reach the finals. In the finals series we only lost one game (by 3 points) but unfortunately finished third in the State on percentage.

Throughout the year, the whole team played exceptionally well, enjoying their games and showing great grit and determination in the knockout games.

They are all to be commended on their performances - Leanne Martin and Rebecca Collins for their dogged, determined and almost impassable defence; Johanne Crammond for her brilliance and consistency at centre; Mandy Roennfeldt for her speed, mobility and shooting skills; Mehgan Murphy for her goal shooting skills; Leanne Bahnisch for her overall brilliance and ability to play any position; Christy Yates and Melissa Connolly for their consistency and Terrier-like determination at wing attack and Karen Hazel for her sterling efforts at wing defence.

Many thanks also to Jenny McKay, Louise Stacey, Linda Simpson, Naomi Tucker, Rebecca Robinson, Lisa Bowyer and Leah McKenzie who filled in occasionally when some of our regular team members were unavailable and helped make up the full squad for the knockout competition games.

THE OPEN GIRLS' BASKETBALL TEAM

The Open Girls' Basketball Team won the inaugural Foundation SA Senior Girls' State Basketball Competition (Pool B).

The campaign was the most successful in the history of senior girls' basketball at Underdale. It was fitting that the victory took place in the School's 25th anniversary year.

The team was undefeated throughout the qualifying rounds and the finals series. The girls played consistently well and at times their performances were remarkable.

Our match versus St. Marys in the first qualifying round was uneventful but for the performance of team captain Amanda Roenfeldt who blitzed the opposition in the second half to hit six consecutive baskets!

The second qualifying match was a heated affair. We played Mercedes College an opponent we learned to respect. (We didn't realise it but we were to meet them another two tices in the finals series!). The pace of the game was set as Amanda Roenfeldt, Lili Ivancic and Lisa Bowyer ripped the defence to shreds, posting ten points to nil in the first four minutes. The margin didn't change again, as the teams fought basket for basket.

The finals series enabled other team members to display their talent and commitment. Stephanie Dolan played an aggressive role as a defensive forward. She managed to keep her cool despite some hard knocks and helped to win the lion's share of the boards. Jane Altree played a much more assertive offensive role. She scored in each of the finals games and played some excellent blocking moves in defence. Sarah Ladd persevered with a nagging injury and lead the attack on the offensive boards. Nicole Chumak played an important role in the Grand Final. She consistently outmanouvered the Mercedes centre and closed down the opposition's main avenue of attack.

Karen Limb was inspired by the offensive dash and defensive flair of Lili and Amanda and the brilliant shooting display of Lisa Bowyer. Karen filled in for Amanda (who experienced difficulties due to poor health during the round robin) on several vital occasions. Karen quickly learned how to play a more assertive role as bringer of the ball. In fact Underdale was fortunate to have such a strong bench to back up the first five. Dallas Hughes underwent her trial-by-fire and was unlucky to miss out getting on the scoresard. The girls were awarded with individual trophies and Amanda Roenfeldt accepted the Winnder's Shield on behalf of the team, at half-time at the 36'ers VS Melbourne match on Friday 11th August.

The following awards were made at the school assembly.

1. Best Player - Lisa Bowyer
2. Most Improved - Jane Altree
3. Special Award for services to basketball at U.H.S. - Amanda Roenfeldt.
4. All-Star Five (Team Member) - Lili Ivancic

Thank you to the parents of the players for their work on the bench, their cheering and their encouragement. Thanks to Rob Tidd, (assistant coach) for his valuable input throughout the campaign. The trophy is in our showcase until next year. Maybe we can keep it there.

GIRLS OPEN BASKETBALL

During the first term of this year I had the privilege of "coaching" the Open Girls Basketball team. The team had outstanding success, albeit against some rather poor competition.

We went through the season undefeated. Consistent best players were Amanda Roennfeldt and Lili Ivancic.

Amanda's brilliant play and outstanding ability in other sports resulted in her being awarded one of the two School Sports Awards for 1989.

U-14 SOCCER REPORTS

The team had quite a successful year winning 4 games, drawing 2 and losing 2 games to finish fifth overall. Very good team play early in the season enabled us to win and draw against the top two sides. The competition was very even this year and this resulted in some very close hard fought contests. Congratulations to all the students who were involved in U-16 soccer this year but special mention to, Michael Kokolakis who has speed, strength and never stops trying, to Robbie Marafioti whose ball skills are first class and to Bill Siahamis for his great team play all year. Other good players throughout the year were Bill Fragos in goal and at centre, Peter Katsoukas in the back lines and Con Georgiou as sweeper. Other members of the team who played well throughout the year were Leighton Modra, Adrian Stramare, Con Kirgianis, Leon Koulizos, Denis Panteladis, John Stanatopoulos, George Kargiotis and Nick Miglis. Highlights of the year were the good fun the team had, 5-0 win agains Le Fevre and the penalty that Con Georgiou missed (ask him to tell you about it!)
Thanks to Ricky Petropolous for his support and help both at training and at the matches.

JUNIOR GIRLS' BASKETBALL

The junior girls team did learn how to remain supportive of each other under pressure. They did not have a successful season in so far as game results were concerned.

Georgia Sourlatzis and Amy Welling formed the main fire-power of the team. They scored consistently in a competition where their opponents made it difficult to so much as reach the key. Selena Bartlett and Alison Coulthard were courageous in defence. They often had to contest the boards with girls who were all but twice their height. They learned the value of blocking out as the short season passed them by. Jodie Hobbs made an effort to support Alison and Selena but was hampered by injuries (mostly received on court). Cynthia Owen and Sharryn Pitt worked together as forwards and rarely missed an opportunity to stifle the oppositions offence. Sharryn developed a knack for forcing jump-balls. Tamika Carusi and Tina Evangelou learned to 'ride' some heavy knocks and still grab or keep a hold of the ball. Tina took advantage of her small frame and slipped past her heavier opponents on several occasions.

Unfortunately, we did not win a game but we did learn a lot about contesting under pressure. The team never let themselves or their coach down by giving up. There is something to look forward to in 1990.

MR H N MACPHERSON (COACH- JUNIOR GIRLS BASKETBALL, 1989)

U-13 TENNIS

Members of the team were Lachlan Colebatch, Adam Macklin, Nigel Quaini, Jedd Greer and Heath Fisher. Although we didn't win many matches this year a lot of the games were close and could have gone either way. All members were keen and enthusiastic and the standard of their tennis and general knowledge of the game improved tremendously this year. With the same enthusiasm and a bit more practice, it won't be long before they are winning the close games.

JUNIOR BOYS BASKETBALL

The junior boys basketball team worked hard all season to develop the ability to be competitive. They ended the winter season with a 5 - 6 win-loss record. The players learned to encourage and on occasions inspire each other to play well.

David Ladd was often inspirational. His game plan involved driving at the basket and / or balking and firing from just within the three point line, with great success. James Clegget was indefatigable in defence. He seemed to "glue" himself to his opponents and chased down a great many offensive plays (particularly fast-breaks).

Adam Davies, Adam Ashley and Craig Crowder played strong defensive rolls too. The two Adams' often worked together to shut down any drive toward the basket. They also finished most games with points on the scorecard. Craig was an anxious and untiring defensive guard. His two 'alley-oop' shots made the opposition stop in their tracks in game four.

Daniel Cannan and Graham Lee provided the height we needed to thwart the oppositions scoreboard. His eight point game in round six gave him some much needed confidence in his own ability. Matthew Harrison played disciplined defence as a guard and worked on taking that discipline into offence. Cameron Hawke played consistently well and is unlikely to forget the game in round nine when he became the "Ice Man". Cameron shot four successive three-pointers in the second half of that game! Michael Crosato took advantage of the opportunities he was given and turned in some very sound defensive games. He also managed to 'bug' a few opponenets because he never let them move a centimetre without tripping over him (sometimes literally). Chris Mibus made some valiant attempts to retrieve squandered passes early in the season. By season's end he had developed a habit of drawing the opposing player to him before he passed. This tactic resulted in the ball being used much more effectively up the court.

The boys played each game in good spirits and all of them have good reason to look forwad to 1990.

U/13 SOFTBALL

The Junior Softball team has been a great group to coach and manager. Most of the girls have attended practices regularly, and are being rewarded for their efforts by a noticeable improvement in their skills. The girls enjoy playing as a team, and so promise a good future for softball at Underdale.

OPEN U/16 SOFTBALL REPORT

The Underdale High School Senior Softball team is having a successful season; the majority of the team being year 9 students. Two new students to the school, Cheryl Ingilizian and Jenny Slater as pitcher and catcher, helped the team get through the first part of the season with only one loss.

A number of outstanding performances were due to good teamwork which was amply rewarded by exceptional scoring.

The fourth term competition started well for us with a vastly changed line up, still capable of some good play. At this stage the number of runs scored for and against us is 138 to 50. This included a narrow 4-8 loss to Taperoo, our second for the season. I anticipate the team finishing the season in one of the top two positions if they can maintain their enthusiasm and team spirit.

Those who have been consistently good performers included Cheryl, Jenny, Kristi Cook, Anne Louise Monck, Rebecca Stefani and Anna Puddicombe.

NETBALL REPORT

"D" GRADE

The year 9 girls who played in the team can be justifiably proud of going through this season's zone competition undefeated. The high standard of play set by the girls was at times hard to maintain, but during each match they showed enthusiasm and good team spirit.

All of the girls played in a number of positions and this flexibility allowed us to settle quickly into our game. The girls were a good group to coach because of their positive attitude and reliability. Players who were consistently good performers and played the whole season included:

Chantell Murphy  Amanda Crosato  Kellie Stevens

THE UNDER 14 BOYS FOOTBALL had a moderately successful season. The team won 8 out of their 9 home and away matches, but were beaten by Taperoo in the grand final, at Alberton oval. After finishing on top of the ladder in the Western Zone, the team qualified to play in the state finals. Once again the team was beaten in the finals. Overall the boys teamed very well together, and there were some fine performances throughout the season.
From a personal view I found each individual a pleasure to coach and I believe many members of the team have the potential to become future league players if they are prepared to do the hard work.

THE U13 GIRLS BASKETBALL team is a very keen and enthusiastic bunch of competitors. Form many of the girls it is the first time they have played together as a group. The team's style of play has greatly improved from the first time they came together. Overall the girls have been a pleasure to coach and they have enjoyed themselves thoroughly through the experience.

UNDER 15 BOYS CRICKET

The under 15 Boys Cricket Team played well in most matches.
We defeated Seaton and Croydon and narrowly lost to Henley. At the time of writing we are scheduled to play Taperoo.
In the match against Seaton High School the best players were Sam Turner (4 wickets), Daniel Crawford and Nathan Montgomery. Daniel gave a brilliant display of batting, while Nathan showed his skills behind the wicket and with the bat.
We lost to Henley High School by 20 runs. Daniel Crawford showed his skills as an all-rounder, taking 4 wickets while Nathan Montgomery again showed skills with the bat, scoring 25 runs.
The match against Croydon High School was a one-sided affair, with Underdale dominating with both bat and ball.
Daniel Crawford and Nathan Montgomery again showed themselves to be a brilliant opening pair and made 50 and 40 runs respectively.
Underdale made 150 runs to Croydon's total of 60.
Best players for the year were Daniel Crawford and Nathan Montgomery with the bat and Sam Turner and Daniel Crawford with the ball. Sam Turner, with 11 wickets for the season, was the best bowler.
I would like to thank Mr. Gumple and Mr. Morley for scoring, umpiring and coaching us.

MY LIFE AS A SHOE

Today, I woke up to the sound of my twin, Left, being shoved on someone's foot. Then it was my turn. I was grabbed at the toe and put on Mr Buckle's right foot. He plodded around the house with us on and he was wearing a hole in the sole of my body. Left was not very pleased at all. As the day passed by, I was aching all over and, when Mr Buckle finally put me in the cupboard, I fell asleep. The next day, I was awakened by my two friends in the shoe box who were being put on. I peered over the side of the cupboard to see what was happening. Left also joined me along with all of his friends. Then we all slid down into the cupboard and talked all day, and then we slept for a while until it was really time to go to sleep and we did.

I woke up the next morning, realising Left was gone. Mr Buckle came and looked into the cupboard, finding me but without Left. He looked and searched everywhere for Left. Left didn't turn up anywhere. So I was left in the dark, smelly cupboard. I looked around and saw beside me a pair of sandals. I was so pleased to see them. Mr Buckle came in and found Left; he put us both on and went for a walk. As he was walking he stepped on some gum. Ichik! It stuck like glue and smelt awful. Mr Buckle didn't realise it until he came home. He tried to take it off. He scraped, pulled and soaked the gum but it wouldn't move, so he threw Left and I into the shed with all of the vermin. It was most uncomfortable and we smelt very off, wishing we were clean.

He left us there all night and the next day. He finally came and got us out the day after. He took us out of the shed, put us in an airtight bag and walked up the street.

We didn't know where we were going, but it felt like a long way. We finally got to this shoe store, a shoe repairs store, and Left and I were placed very roughly on a shelf with a whole heap of other shoes, but they all moved away from us because we smelt too much. This old man took us and cleaned us, until we looked and smelt really nice and new. We were taken back to Mr Buckle's and were very carefully placed in a new cupboard where all of his new shoes were. We were treated really well and we were only worn on special occasions.

That's my life and it's great.

THE ASTRONOMY CLUB

1989 has been a very busy year for the Astronomy Club. Some of our members attended a weekend seminar on Astronomy at the South Australian Institute of Technology, Frome Road Campus. Interesting lecture topics included "Comets", "The Size of the Universe" and "The History of Astronomy and Telescopes". We also participated in an exciting "star party", organized by the President of the South Australian Astronomized Association, where most of our members viewed Saturn and Jupiter through a number of different telescopes. A proposed visit to the Stockport Observatory was unfortunately cancelled due to the poor weather. We hope this visit will still go ahead later when the skies are clearer.

Telescope production has been our greatest activity to such an extent tht we have had to introduce a roster system for the use of the grinding and polishing machines. John Kiejko and Alex Princi have finished cutting out their mirror blanks and are now in the fine grinding stage.

We lost a valued club member when Volcan Evci transferred to Hallet Cove. His mirror is being completed by Adrian Vesnaver. We thank Paul Zoumis for obtaining for us large quantities of thick glass suitable for mirror blanks. This has considerably cut down the costs of producing our own mirrors. Our new diamond treparring equipment has been completed and is now in operation. This machine has reduced the time needed to cut our mirror blanks. Last year we obtained a lens generator using funds from our Secondary Educational Technology Grant. This has been modified and restored and is now able to rough out the concave shape on the mirror blanks much faster than before.

The first of our fibreglass telescope tubes has been completed using the moulds that the Club constructed last year. We have also made progress with the development of our high vacuum equipment. This will be used to put a mirror surface onto the glass blanks. It represents a great step forward in the overall construction of our Newtonian reflecting telescopes.

CHESS CLUB

This year, our D team came second in the Inter-School Competition. Most of our players performed strongly throughout the year. We all enjoyed going into town on Friday nights to play; it was good fun. Our players also enjoyed beating their opponents, sometimes wiping them off the board. One of our players achieved victory in only four moves. He managed this feat twice in a row. In the competition, Underdale was just beaten by Prince Alfred College's No 1 Team. It was unfortunate for us that to win, Prince Alfred College's No 1 Team had to play and win against their No 2 Team. This they did; they won 5-0. Underdale therefore came second.

On occasions, our coach Mr Fleig, had to exert his control on some of our more zealous players. Tactics such as constant murmuring, foot tapping, deliberate fidgeting, were not acceptable to him. Our players were very competitive; squeaking noises from a concealed balloon and a trick safety pin through the hand certainly helped to destroy concentration.

On a more serious note is the problem we face every year. We always get one selfish individual who deliberately does not front up to play. Our team automatically loses a point. It is a team game.

To sum up our season, a good time was had by all. Mr Fleig would especially like to thank Paul and Brenton for their entertainment in his car on the trips home after the games.

Our players for 1989 were:

Atanas Nikolof (Captain)
Brenton Briggs
John Kieszek
Paul Zoumis
Marek Mohila
Andrew Briggs

Special thanks must go to Mr Fleig, our coach and Director of Play. He was very proud of our players and the team for adding a fifth pennant to our collection.

Beneath the darkening leaden clouds
White horses dance, tall and proud
Ferns plunge and swoop, seagulls fly
To escape the angry sky
Menacing clouds swirl and boil
As Poseidon sets himself to toil
Deep within his ocean cave
His fury creates the cresting waves
His sirens sing a moaning dirge
To send the horses on their surge
His winds scream out a rising tune
Poseidon's storm will be here soon
Thunder rumbles lightening flashes
On the rocks white horse crashes
Tossing manes that drip with foam to die upon their sandy home.

POETRY OF PLACE - ELIZABETH WERNERMAN

(Elizabeth was a Swedish exchange student at Underdale High School during Terms 1 and 2)

I have written a few poems to illustrate the Swedish landscape that is completely different from the Australian. Both are very beautiful, but while Australia has desert and rainforests, Sweden has snow and pinetrees.

A country's national symbol, the Flag, is very precious and so are the colours they use. I have written a poem to symbolize that;

A SWEDE'S VIEW

We are yellow and we are blue,
to those colours I am true.
Aussies are green and what they call gold,
to the wattle's colours they are sold.
The Danish flag is red and white,
and they call it Danish dynamite.
In France they have "Le Tricolour",
A symbol for revolution, yes Sir!
"Stars and stripes" is from the States,
that's nothing for you, mates!
In England the "Union Jack",
is on every soccerfans back.
But I must say and that is sure,
the yellow and blue is best of them all!

MOUNTAINS

Up in North, cold and snow,
Dark winter, sun is low.
Snowy Mountains, days are short,
The Beauty of the country,
Where the Vikings fought.

FORESTS AND LAKES

Among the pinetrees
Birds are singing a song of
Summer in the North

The lake is full of
Fish and other animals
Full of life and joy.

COAST

The water is still, some seagulls are resting.
The fisherman comes into the shore.
The sun has risen and shines on the blue water.
A man takes out his sailing-boat and rests on deck.
Children throw off their clothes and rush into the clear and cool water.
The mother smiles.
Summer has come to the west coast.
The water is still, some seagulls are resting.

FARMLAND

The little red farms,
stand on flat land
By green fields,
in South where
Birds fly.

Madly he enthrals the students of the special schools show.
Air he turns into objects
Repeatedly people cheer and clap at his performances.
Children sometimes interent things differently from Adults.
Easily he astounds audiences with his art.
Lost he becomes in a world of mine.

Macho to shy he can become in a blink of an eye.
An hour and a half is what he usually takes to perform.
Repeatedly people come back for more.
Cannot imagine anyone better than him when it comes to mime.
Every mime has its own intricate story.
Another tour on the road.
Undoubtedly the finest mime artist in all the world.

WELL DONE MARCEL MARCEAU!!!

MARCEL MARCEAU

As we walked into the theatre you could feel the tension in the room as we all waited for the veteran of mime to come out on the stage. Finally the moment came and the legend walked out on the stage. At 66 years old the French man is at the peak of his career. For half the show he was Bip and the other half he was various people in various acts. He shows love, fury, excitement and many other things in the universal language of mime. All over the world he is known as the KING OF MIME.

This man is truly one in a million as people from all over the world crowd to see his fascinating acts. Some include:- David and Goliath, The Mirrors, The Sculptor, The Public Garden and many more which are at a high standard of acting. All in all, it was a truly fascinating show - one definitely not to be missed.

MARCEL MARCEAU

Miming is what he does
Acts what he feels
Really very clever
Can't imagine anyone better at mime
Experienced in every way
Lively in his movements

Made everyone laugh
A sixty-six year old french man
Ran around the stage
Can get a message through without talking
Everyone enjoys his performance
A genius
Under spotlights

The Mystic Garden

Where is the mystic garden?
Where does it lie?
Does it hide in the forest
Under a fairy sky?

Is it in the mountains,
Behind a snow white peak?
Is it by the river
Where angry trolls sleep?

Is it blessed with flowers?
Scattered here and there?
Do the beams of sunlight
Dance upon the misty air?

Does the peaceful unicorn
Drink at the gurgling creek?
Can you hear the goblins
In the bushes where they peek?

Of all the mystic gardens
That you will ever find
Is that which you can create
In the recesses of your mind

In the young it is so easy
For their minds to roam and play
And for the old it is the same
To dream away the day.

MY FALL WALK

I was walking through a mass of trees which seemed to be looking me over and prodding me with their big arms to see if I passed with satisfaction. It was the time of the year when some trees were 'shedding' their leaves and as I walked over them the crackling frightened small birds which flew up in a flutter from the bare branches above.

There were still small animals hunting around for scraps to store for the coming winter, but as I approached they all ran off to their homes, whether it was a hole in the leaf choked ground or part of a hollow oak tree. The patter of their feet sounded like soft rain on a dry creek bed.

I continued to walk and heard many noises which differed in many ways but were similar as well. The sun started to set with all the rays of red, orange and yellow scattered across the changing blue skies so I headed off home with the memories of my fantasy which I will return to one day.

Ode to the Orchid

Queen of Sheba,
Tresses of Desire,
Green as an emerald
Red as fire
YOU are the orchid.

Angels Wings,
Yellow Autumn Bird,
Some with names
Never heard
YOU are the orchid.

Regent of the Jungle,
Small, unseen,
Delicate petals,
Rain washed clean
YOU are the orchid.

Pristine snow white,
Bright azure blue,
No other flower
Is like you
YOU are the orchid.

THE SPECIAL TREE

Have you heard of me?
I'm the one who gave you that tree.
Yes, that special tree,
That nice, green, tall tree,
With green leaves,
and beautiful flowers.
You had better keep it,
For safe keeping,
because it might be
the only one left,
soon ....

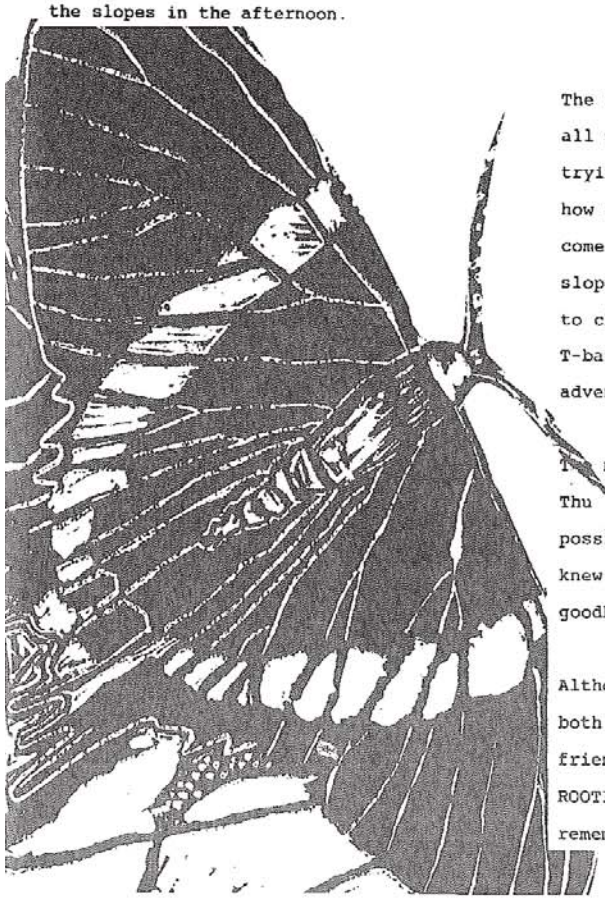
SKI TRIP 1989

It was 12.00 pm Saturday 8 July and time for us lucky people (or that's what we thought at the time!) who were going on the ski trip to board the bus. To think that we thought the challenge was going to be learning to ski, little did we know that the first major obstacle would be surviving the 18 hour bus trip to get to the snow!

The bus trip did have quite a few highlights, and for some of the girls the stops proved very exciting - of course this had nothing to do with the busload of guys from Black Friars who happened to stop at the same places. During the bus trip we soon got to know the kids from Kadina who proved to be an interesting bunch!! Some of us slept in the aisles and some slept under the seats, but the majority didn't sleep. Those of us who did manage to obtain a few hours sleep were woken in the early hours of the morning to be told it was snowing. The scene outside the windows was beautiful, even to those who had seen snow before. The bus trip was lengthened a little, when we remained stuck half way up a hill for an hour or so, but it was all part of the fun!!

At about 8.00 am on Monday morning (it didn't matter that we were supposed to be there at 6.30 am), we arrived at Berridale, tired and stiff necked. By 10.00 am we were at Smiggins ready for our first day in the snow. During the first day it was snowing so much after morning lessons and lunch most of us chose not to return to the slopes in the afternoon.



The next day turned out clear and sunny and after our lessons we all went off with our friends and enjoyed a great day of skiing (or trying to ski!). Those of us who hadn't skied before soon learned how to use the poma and chairlifts and to some these skills didn't come easily. The following 3 days were spent at Guthega, where the slopes were much more challenging and there were many more trails to choose from. It was here that us beginners learned to use the T-bars. The days on the slopes were filled with excitement and adventure, there was never a dull moment!

The nights back at the ski-lodge were also fun; the Wednesday & Thursday night Discos made us more tired and stiff (if that was possible), but it was worth it. The week sped by and before we knew it it was time to pack, take our last photos and say our goodbyes.

Although the trip saw a few injuries, all in all it was great fun both day and night and we all enjoyed skiing, eating and making new friends! As the girls from Kadina would say, we had a "HOOTIN', ROOTIN' TOOTIN' of a time", and I'm sure the trip will be long-remembered!!

The Show

I used to go to the show
rain, hail or shine.
I used to bust open my piggy bank
and get every cent I could find.
I used to ride the ferris-wheel,
and buy all kinds of toys,
I used to ride the horses
and meet my friends "the boys".
When I got home that evening,
I couldn't sleep at night.
So I'd open all my showbags,
and see what I could find.
I used to fall asleep at twelve with lollies in my hand
and then I would start dreaming about the show again.

"Memories of the Show"

It was 1980 and I was six years old. The Royal Adelaide Show was my life. It wasn't so much the rides and the games that attracted me, it was more the show bags. I hadn't been able to go the year before because I was on holiday in Melbourne. I was really looking forward to going.

It was a lovely day, not too hot and not too cold. The line of people waiting at the entrance wasn't very long. We waited for about 10 minutes which I really didn't mind. When we finally came in through the gates I quickly ran for the showbag stands. I must have bought about 12 showbags: I can only remember a few.

Now, in 1989 when I went to the Royal Show, it was completely different. I went with my two close cousins. We had a lovely time going on all the rides and games. We had to wait for about an hour in the line to enter the show. When we did enter, the whole place was filled with screaming kids on rides, people rushing about everywhere and little children crying. We arrived at the show at 4.00 pm and left at 11.00 pm. We watched the fireworks and we ate our hearts out.

Sometimes, I miss being young and going to the show because when I was young, I enjoyed being with my parents and buying showbags. Now it's social death if you go with your parents. On the other hand, I like being independent and going with my friends, by myself with no parents.

Students at Years 11 and 12 levels actively participated in the state-wide Mock Trial Competition run by the Law Society of South Australia, which succeeds in its aim of showing, in a practical way, how to apply the theory students learn about our legal system.

The trials were against other high school and college teams and the competitions were conducted separately for Years 10/11 and Year 12. Teams alternated with prosecution and defence roles and no details were given of the opposition's case. Always there were 'twists' to contend with, which meant that team members quickly learnt to "think on their feet". Cross-examination of witnesses was scary - no witness knowing what would be asked - and barristers learnt to "close in for the kill".

Real-life lawyers were appointed as coaches - we thank especially Mr Miles Crawley of Moody Rossi & Company who gave so willingly and generously of his time to our Yr 11 teams; and our Yr 12 coach Miss Maria Panagiotodis, from the Prosecutions Branch of the Attorney General's Department, who coached the Yr 12's so well they contested the Grand Final against St Mary's College, Adelaide.

Both coaches realistically presented court room techniques to the students and staff, combatting successfully the more exaggerated ideas gained by most from the television/film versions of trials!

Despite a 'no show of judge' for one Yr 11 trial, (and would you believe it, in the next round, for a Yr 12 trial), our Yr 11 team were not knocked out until Round 3, leaving the prize money for the Yr 10/11 competition to other schools this time.

All of the team members conducted themselves with credit whether hosting the event (when prosecuting) or travelling to other schools (when defending), and staff accompanying them were proud of their standard of presentation and behaviour at all times.

The Grand Final of the Yr 12 competition was held in the splendid old Supreme Court Number Two which was very exciting. Knowing the awesome proportions of the place, the team 'booked' in for a three-quarter hour "familiarisation and exploration" excursion a week before the trial.

Our team performed impeccably - we won the case for the Prosecution - not an easy task - but lost the competition by the narrowest of margins, one point! Thus St Mary's College are proudly displaying the handsome engraved silver ice-bucket trophy donated by ISA Maritime Pty Ltd as a perpetual trophy, and the silver goblet which they keep.

Mr John Mansfield, QC, President of the Law Society of South Australia, expressed his pleasure at the interest shown in the competition at all levels, and Mr Harold Anderson, Manager of ISA Maritime, presented the trophies, including individual trophies for all team members, donated by the Law Society of South Australia.

Despite the time consumed in managing two teams, with two different cases each time, some trials being only days apart, I really enjoyed the experience, and I sincerely thank students and coaches for their part in that enjoyment. I thank also my husband Harold for his considerable efforts in helping students to understand the preparation of Opening and Closing addresses, and his general support of me.

THE INSIDE OF A SOLO CAN

The inside of a Solo can is probably not the best place to make your home, but being the lazy ant that I am, I did not find the idea of digging for weeks quite to my liking. Instead, I moved out of the colony into my own residence.

I have to admit it is not the most luxurious of places but it does have some good points. Low maintenance is one of them - no cave-ins here! Besides, I think the curved walls and high ceilings give it a nice character of its own.

Last night I had a can-warming party. I had invited most of the ants in the colony over for a bit of an antisocial. I especially made sure Antheena was coming; now there is an antibody I'd like to know better. All the preparations were almost done. Mum had come over to lend a couple of hands. She is getting a bit old now is Mum but she still comes in useful. She's not quite the antique everyone thinks she is.

There was a knock on the lid; I thought someone had arrived early. Instead of an invited guest, it was the Mormants! There they were, trying to preach to me about the Antichrist. Well I didn't have time for it, so I told them to go, and when they wouldn't, I slammed the lid in their faces - no mean feat I can tell you. Have you ever tried to slam a can lid shut? It is not easy; that's for sure.

With the Mormants gone, I was ready for the party-goers to arrive, and arrive they did - one after each other, in a long line, as if they had to follow someone else because they didn't know where to go!

I must admit I had not anticipated such a turn up, and ants were everywhere, climbing up walls, piled up around the entrance, and some had even brought their suction boots and were walking on the ceiling. I decided it was time to get this party going and put on some music. What else would I start with but "Ant Music" by Adam and the Ants. It's become a bit of an antem with me and the rest of the anti-establishment folk.

I spotted Antheena over in a corner and headed off in that direction. Soldier Ant sidelined me and tried to tell me a story, you've heard them all. Trying not to antagonise him, I told him there was someone I had to see and continued towards Antheena.

When I finally reached her, she was stuck in a group, talking to Antony. I beckoned her over and she was glad to move. She thanked me for getting her away as Antony was raving on, talking about rubbish.

"What else would you expect from a Bull Ant?" I replied.

From then on things started going well. Antheena and I were getting on famously. I decided to "go for broke" and told her how I felt about her. I asked her to leave the colony and come to live with me.

"You mean antelope with you?" she queried.

"Yes dear", I replied, anticipating the best.

Well that was it! She started laughing and rolling around on the floor. Here I was, pinning my hopes and aspirations on life with Antheena and there she was, hysterical with laughter. What an anti-climax.

At that very same moment, disaster struck. My house was picked up and shaken around. Oh no, a can scab, trying to get his 5c deposit!
